

Rhodes' Move Blow to Scranton

Barry First-Ballot Win Prospects Soar

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., voicing vigorous defenses of his international and domestic views, headed for a platform hearing today with fresh indications of a first ballot GOP presidential nomination victory.

Goldwater's reply to a new fusillade of criticism fired at him Thursday by Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, his badly trailing rival for the nomination, was that he stands just where he has for a long time—for freedom at home and in the world.

"I'm not a Johnny-come-lately," he told a news conference in apparent reference to Scranton's late-starting candidacy.

The Pennsylvania governor's hopes of making a fight out of it for the nomination absorbed a heavy body blow when Gov. James A. Rhodes announced he will recommend at a Monday caucus that the 58 Ohio delegates abandon their commitment to him as a favorite son and vote for the candidate of their choice on the first ballot.

This could be the finishing touch to the hopes of Scranton, who conferred with the Ohio governor, to build any effective stop-Goldwater coalition.

The Arizona senator, who already had proclaimed that he was "more confident than I have ever been" of winning on the first ballot, was expected to

Won't Dictate Platform Planks

Goldwater Calls For Party Unity

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Barry Goldwater, the odds-on favorite in the GOP presidential race, called for party unity today and told platform writers he would not dictate what to put in their planks.

Addressing the Republican platform committee at its final hearing, the Arizona senator made scant reference to the specific jabs tossed at his views by his rival, Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, before the same group Thursday.

"You must speak for the whole party," Goldwater told the committee in prepared remarks. "You must seek a document that will unite us on principle, not divide us."

"Let the creative differences, even in your own committee, help you build a platform, not tear down the party. Let the vigorous dissents test the applications of our principles, not tear down the principles themselves."

Goldwater went on to expound his philosophy—a free society under constitutionalism at home and strength for freedom and peace abroad—but added: "I would not presume for a moment to tell you what should or should not go into this platform in terms of specific planks, pledges or programs."

And "I look forward wholeheartedly to supporting the document that you draft," he said. "I look forward to running on it. I trust and will always serve this party, in whatever capacities it may assign."

Goldwater was the last scheduled star witness as the 100-man committee wound up a week of testimony and headed into closed-session writing of the party document tonight and Saturday.

A behind-the-scenes fight was already on with signs it could spill into the convention next week.

After lopsidedly losing a preliminary procedural skirmish about what they termed "gag rule" Thursday, Scranton forces on the committee presented a sheaf of "moderate republicanism" proposals to the 13-member executive committee.

The Scranton planks contrasted pointedly on a number of domestic and foreign affairs statements made by Goldwater, and the executive committee seems certain not to accept them in full.

Scranton's campaign manager, Pennsylvania Sen. Hugh Scott, said the fight could spill into the nominating convention next week.

Scott presented some "moderate Republicanism" planks Thursday night to the 13-man executive committee which is drafting language to be acted on by the full committee starting tonight.

The Scranton proposals jabbed at Goldwater positions on a variety of issues and stood little chance of full acceptance by the committee. The Scranton planks included affirmation of constitutionality of the new

Harding Love Letters Found

Support Book's Charges of Affairs

NEW YORK (AP)—A packet of more than 250 love letters written by Warren G. Harding to the wife of a department store owner has been found in Marion, Ohio, the late president's home town, the New York Times said today.

The story said that Francis Russell, a historian who has read the letters, said they are the first documentary evidence in support of the repeated assertions that Harding — while married—had affairs with at least two women.

The story also said in part: The letters were written to Mrs. James Phillips of Marion between 1909 and 1920, beginning when Harding was 44 years old. One of them suggests that Mrs. Phillips asked Harding for money as the price for remaining silent after his nomination for president in 1920.

Russell said in an interview Thursday that "internal evidence" in the Phillips' letters gives credence to charges made by Nan Britton in a book she published in 1927. The book, called "The President's Daughter," has been the subject of dispute since its publication.

Miss Britton said she had been Harding's mistress for almost a decade before his death on Aug. 2, 1923, and that she gave birth to his daughter, named Elizabeth Ann, in Asbury Park, N.J., on Oct. 22, 1919.

When challenged, however, she could not produce any letters from Harding. In her book she wrote: "Through mutual recognition of the trouble we might cause each other and the unhappiness that might befall, we early decided to destroy all love letters."

Russell came upon the Phillips' letters while working on a new biography of Harding. Since then, an effort has been begun to have the letters donated to the Library of Congress.

One Hurt, One Cited In Crash

A Lisbon youth was cited and a Mahoning County motorist injured when their cars collided at 11:35 a.m. Thursday just south of Canfield at the intersection of Routes 62 and 14.

John Tullis, 18, of 320 W. Pine St., Lisbon, was cited for failing to obey a stop sign. The driver of the other car, Jerome Popovich, 35, of 5th St., Struthers was treated at Youngstown South Side Hospital for scalp lacerations and body bruises.

The Canfield post of the State Highway Patrol said Tullis was heading southwest on Route 62 toward Salem and pulled from the stop sign at the blinker light crossroads into the path of Popovich, traveling southeast on Route 14. Both autos were considerably damaged.

Testimony Taken At Hearing

Decision On Rt. 14 Will Be Delayed

The Ohio Department of Highways is not expected to announce a decision on the proposed relocation of State Route 14 "for at least three months," it was indicated after the department held a public hearing on the proposed realignment Thursday at Dixon School in Columbiana.

State Highway Director P. E. Masheuer will decide on the basis of evidence taken at today's hearing, explained District 11 Deputy Director Earl Nelson of New Philadelphia at the conclusion of the hearing which lasted an hour and a half and was attended by some 150 persons.

Nelson and Clifton Newhall, deputy director of Division 4 at Ravenna, are expected to make recommendations, however. It would not be built before 1969, Nelson said.

There were more objectors than proponents of the highway change at the hearing. Most of the objections were voiced by persons operating businesses along existing Rt. 14 in the Columbiana area and property owners who would be affected by the relocation of Rt. 14 in Mahoning County and north of the existing east-west highway.

As proposed, the new Route 14 would extend from State Route 11 (the lakes to river freeway now under construction) to the Ohio - Pennsylvania state line. Eventually, Route 62 would link up with 14 and 11, according to state planning.

Among persons voicing objections at the hearing were Arthur Pfund, Jr., Helen Stacey, John Golden, Ruthenne Garver, Atty. Richard Fox and Robert

County Gets Lake Grant

$124,000 OK'd for Highlandtown Job

The State Controlling Board Thursday approved a total of $124,000, including $4,000 in federal funds, for the construction of Highlandtown Lake in Columbiana County.

The sum was among several requests by the Natural Resources Department to be taken from the voter-approved $250 million bond issue.

The site of the proposed lake is off Rt. 39, at the southern end of Highlandtown in the southern part of the county.

State Rep. Clarence (Dutch) Wetzel of Lisbon said the total earmarked for the lake is $375,000.

He said the amount approved yesterday will be used to purchase the additional 479 acres of land needed for the project. So far 1,560 acres have been bought.

Wetzel declared the county

Witnesses Say Plane Exploded While In Air

None On Board Survive; United Asks FBI Probe

NEWPORT, Tenn. (AP) — A smoking, low-flying United Air Lines plane crashed and burned in the foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains late Thursday night, killing the 39 persons aboard.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A young stewardess on the United Air Lines plane that crashed in eastern Tennessee Thursday night, killing the 39 aboard, hailed from Youngstown.

here near the North Carolina line.

United asked the Federal Bureau of Investigation to make an inquiry into the nation's worst airline crash since a Pacific Airlines plane crashed east of San Francisco May 7, killing all 44 aboard.

The United flight originated in Philadelphia and was bound for Huntsville Ala. The plane had stopped in Washington and was due in Knoxville, 40 miles to the south, six minutes after it crashed in a heavily wooded hollow at 6:15 p.m.

The pilot, Capt. Oliver E. Sabatke of Washington, radioed 13 minutes before the crash that he was changing from an instrument to a visual flight plan. There was a 4,000-foot ceiling, 30-mile visibility and scattered clouds.

"I heard a screeching noise, looked up and saw the plane smoking and coming in toward a hill," said Frank Turner, 52, a Cocke County constable.

Mrs. Charles Hawk said she saw the four-engine plane explode and fall into the hollow near her home.

Other witnesses reported seeing objects falling from the plane, according to William Cureton, captain of the Newport

Meter Fund Use Depends on Several 'Ifs,' Auditor Says

By LYNN BROWNE

City Auditor Helen Coyne said today that any money transferred into the general fund from the parking meter fund will not be used this year unless revenue is not as high as was anticipated, or Council appropriates it for use by one of the municipal departments.

The auditor stated that the same applies to money collected from the meters for the rest of 1964 which automatically would be funneled into the general fund if the parking meter fund is eliminated. She said the budget for 1965 is balanced, with the city ending the year in the black, and payrolls for the rest of this year can be met regardless of whether the parking meter fund is eliminated and its revenue placed in the general fund or not.

WITH THESE STATEMENTS, the auditor eliminated part of the confusion surrounding an ordinance passed by Council Tuesday night abolishing the parking meter fund and transferring its revenue into the general fund.

Mayor Dean Cranmer has not signed the measure into law yet and said Wednesday he would not do so until another ordinance is passed setting excess money in the fund aside for emergency use. He said he didn't want it to "disappear" into the general fund.

The mayor said he also objects to placing of parking met-

Adopts Tentative Budget

Fairfield-Waterford Board Hires Teacher

The Fairfield - Waterford District Board of Education Thursday night employed an elementary teacher and a custodian, tentatively adopted a budget of $510,803.60 and accepted the resignations of two instructors.

Re-hired after six years was Mrs. Mary Hawkins, a former teacher, who will have charge of sixth grade at the Waterford building.

Executive head Joseph Driscoll said a third grade teacher, a junior high shop and physical education teacher, a high school English teacher and a high school chemistry and physics teacher are still needed before school begins.

Alfred Cresanto was appointed custodian of the Fairfield building and the retirement of Raymond Montgomery, long-time custodian at the Waterford School, was announced. He will be replaced by Eugene Esterly.

The breakdown of the new budget, as submitted to the county budget commission for approval is $414,402.36 in the general fund, $39,950 in the cafeteria fund and $56,451.24 in the bond retirement fund.

Resignations were accepted from Joseph Danko, instrumental music instructor, who will teach at Youngstown South and Princeton schools, and Donald Horgan, track coach and commercial and social studies teacher, who will go to Winchester, Mass.

Graham Opens Ohio Crusade

Columbus Girds for Big Traffic Tie-Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Thousands of Ohioans, after months of intensive planning, are expected to jam Columbus' International League baseball stadium tonight for the opening of evangelist Billy Graham's 10-day Central Ohio Crusade.

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner said Thursday night that officials have prepared as best they could for what is expected to be a mammoth traffic jam around the stadium on Columbus' near West Side.

Graham arrived in the Ohio capital Thursday.

He addressed a dinner meeting of the Central Ohio Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, Thursday night. His talk set the stage for what Graham said he hopes will be a spiritual awakening "not only in Ohio but throughout the world."

The world-famous supersalesman of Christianity described "an urgent need for a moral and spiritual bath for all mankind." He added that he agrees with the view of the late President John F. Kennedy that the problems of the world "are going to get worse before they get better."

Turning to civil rights, Graham told the audience he thinks minority groups in the United

Educators Urge Neutral Viet

5 000 Professors Submit Statment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 5,000 university professors called on President Johnson today—and both the Republican and Democratic parties—to work for a neutralized North and South Viet Nam.

In a statement circulated by the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, they declared that neutralizing both parts of the divided country would end its terror and suffering as well as the continuing loss of American and Vietnamese lives.

"It would be preferable to deeper involvement or irresponsible pullout," the educators said in an appeal to the President and to the platform committees of the two parties.

There was no immediate response at the State or Defense Departments.

The statement said: "We appeal to you, Mr. President, not to enlarge the scope of the war, but instead to work for a neutralized North and South Viet Nam, as a separate, federated or reunified state, protected by international guarantees and peace-keeping forces against all outside interference."

The proposal differed from other calls for neutralization, particularly that by Cambodia, in that it specifically included Communist North Viet Nam.

Thursday, the State Department rebuffed a suggestion by U.N. Secretary-General U Thant that a 14-nation Geneva conference be reconvened in an effort to settle the war in South Viet Nam, with U.N. peace-keeping forces to supervise the implementation of any peace plan developed by the conference.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee June 23 that the U.S. effort in South Viet Nam "carries the risk of escalating to military action outside the border of South Viet Nam."

In his testimony, released Thursday by the committee, McNamara said the U.S. objective is clear—to maintain the independence of South Viet Nam. This, he said, "may require some military action outside the borders" in the future.

POLICE SEEK ROBBERS

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Police continued their search for the person, or persons, who robbed the Economy Savings & Loan Co. of several hundred dollars Thursday.

One neatly dressed, pistol-wielding robber entered the firm in the early afternoon, police said. He handcuffed Ken Lucas, the manager, to a filing cabinet and tied up a secretary, Miss Joan Brown, before rifling a cash drawer and a safe. Police said the robber probably had an accomplice waiting outside.

WORKERS WALK OUT

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Workers affiliated with the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) have walked out at the Ohio Edison Co. plant in what company officials call an unauthorized strike.

The IBEW and Local 118, Utility Workers of America, have been working on a day-to-day basis since contracts expired June 30. Ohio Edison said there would be no disruption of service as a result of the IBEW walk-out Thursday. The IBEW represents 586 workers at the plant and the UWA 1,471.

Green said there are three ways the increased manpower demands can be met: (1) adding to the corps' over-all strength, (2) deactivating some units and shifting the men to other assignments or (3) reducing the manning levels of combat units.

Marine Corps May Ask Hike In Manpower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The commandant of the Marine Corps indicated strongly today he will ask for a boost in the corps' present 190,000-man strength.

Gen. Wallace Greene, Jr., told The Associated Press in an interview that new planes and weapons coming into the corps require more people to maintain and operate them.

It has been four fiscal years since the Marine Corps was granted more men. The Kennedy administration allowed it to go up by 15,000 men.

That increase was used to bring Marine ground and air units up to strength and to add some helicopter and aviation elements.

Greene said the new F4B Phantom jet fighter bomber requires a two-man crew, rather than the single crewman of earlier planes used by the corps.

In addition, he said, it takes up to 100 more men per squadron to maintain this technically sophisticated type of plane.

"They are just starting deliveries of the F4B to the Marine Corps," the commandant said. "By fiscal 1966 we're going to have a real problem finding the people."

Fiscal 1966 is the coming bookkeeping year.

When the Redeye, a shoulder-fired guided missile for defense against lowflying planes, enters the Marine arsenal "we're going to require additional people," the four-star Marine general said. This is some time in the future.

County Youths 2nd In Safety Contest

Columbiana County Youth Council members Nancy Lowmiller, Leroy Essick, Minerva RD 2, Carole Bandy and John Bandy, Alliance RD 5, with Bernice Gidley, Salem RD 1, as narrator, won second place in the district "safety" behind the footlights" contest Wednesday night at Kent State University.

The contest was held in conjunction with the annual farm bureau training school Sunday through today, according to Mrs. Evelyn Hoopes, organizational director of the Columbiana County Farm Bureau.

This group will be alternate to Lorain County which won the contest, only six points separating the first six county groups.

Four other county youths, Patty Stryffeler, Beloit RD 2; Eunice Gidley, Salem RD 1; Doris Hartley and Donald Hartley, Columbiana RD 2, will return home today after attending the six-day training school sponsored by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

When Rhodes arrived in San Francisco, he denied that his morning statement constituted a release of the delegation.

"The delegates have not been released," Rhodes said. "All we are going to do is discuss it Monday morning. On Monday we will discuss the possibility of the delegates voting for their choice on the first ballot."

But a few hours later, after conferring with Bliss, Rhodes and the Ohio GOP chairman announced they would recommend that the delegates vote as they choose.

The joint statement came Thursday night after Rhodes conferred with Bliss upon the governor's arrival here.

The two Ohio GOP leaders said "they would jointly recommend to the Ohio delegation at its Monday, July 12th, breakfast caucus that each delegate vote for the candidate of his choice on the first ballot."

Rhodes also said that if the delegation is released from its favorite son pledge, it would be done Monday.

Prior to his departure from Columbus, Rhodes issued a statement open to various interpretation.

It said: "During the caucus next Monday morning, those delegates who may wish to support their choice will be welcomed to express their beliefs and persuade their colleagues."

"I am confident that every delegate will exercise individually that fine judgment which is characteristic of this splendid group of public officials and private citizens."

Goldwater backers interpreted the statement as saying that Rhodes was releasing his delegates from their favorite son pledge.

Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, leader of the Goldwater faction in the big Ohio delegation, predicted Goldwater might get "as many as 50" Buckeye votes.

Ashbrook said, "We have 25 solid-core votes for Goldwater now and 15 or more others who might swing to him. It might mean the entire delegation would go to Goldwater although some of them do not favor him now."

And Dr. N. B. Livingston Jr. of Columbus, head of the Goldwater forces in central Ohio,

Rhodes, Bliss Free Delegates

Ohio GOP Chiefs Give Barry Boost

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP)

Ohio's two top Republican leaders appear to have given Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater a big boost in his drive for the GOP presidential nomination.

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and Ohio National Committeeman Ray C. Bliss announced here Thursday night that they will recommend that Ohio's 58 convention delegates be free to vote for the candidate of their choice on the convention's first ballot.

A recent Associated Press Poll of the Ohio delegation showed 15 members favoring Goldwater for the nomination, 10 favoring Scranton and the other 33 uncommitted.

But Goldwater supporters in the Buckeye delegation claim that as many as 50 members will vote for Goldwater on the first ballot.

Ohio's delegation is scheduled to caucus Monday, the first day of the convention, to make the final decision on whether all 58 votes will go to Rhodes as a favorite son candidate or whether the delegates will vote for the candidates they choose.

The joint statement came Thursday night after Rhodes conferred with Bliss upon the governor's arrival here.

The two Ohio GOP leaders said "they would jointly recommend to the Ohio delegation at its Monday, July 12th, breakfast caucus that each delegate vote for the candidate of his choice on the first ballot."

Rhodes also said that if the delegation is released from its favorite son pledge, it would be done Monday.

Prior to his departure from Columbus, Rhodes issued a statement open to various interpretation.

It said: "During the caucus next Monday morning, those delegates who may wish to support their choice will be welcomed to express their beliefs and persuade their colleagues."

"I am confident that every delegate will exercise individually that fine judgment which is characteristic of this splendid group of public officials and private citizens."

Goldwater backers interpreted the statement as saying that Rhodes was releasing his delegates from their favorite son pledge.

Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, leader of the Goldwater faction in the big Ohio delegation, predicted Goldwater might get "as many as 50" Buckeye votes.

Ashbrook said, "We have 25 solid-core votes for Goldwater now and 15 or more others who might swing to him. It might mean the entire delegation would go to Goldwater although some of them do not favor him now."

And Dr. N. B. Livingston Jr. of Columbus, head of the Goldwater forces in central Ohio,

Another Horse Race

Slickest timing of the 1964 political war so far was release by Sen. Goldwater's campaign strategists of their man's interview with a German weekly news magazine reporter.

When the reporter asked Sen. Goldwater if he could beat President Johnson, the answer was that he couldn't beat him now but next Nov. 3 "there is going to be another horse race." By releasing this statement on the eve of the Scranton-Lodge campaign to discredit Goldwater by starting the chant, "He can't win," the Arizona senator's managers punctured the opposition's balloon and left it holding the string.

The question before the Republican National Convention next week will be who has enough delegates for the nomination, not who can beat President Johnson next November. But inevitably the convention delegates will be thinking of November while horse-trading.

ALL OF THEM will remember, many grimly, how the "He can't win" chant demoralized Taft backers in the GOP convention in 1952. But they will remember, too, that the Ohioan was competing against the most popular military figure of World War II.

There is no Gen. Eisenhower looming over the favorite in the Republican National Convention this year. There is not even a Wendell L. Willkie, or a Thomas E. Dewey. There are only men named Bill, Dick, Hank and George.

When men like these say Barry Goldwater can't win, they imply one of them could win — and no one is betting that way now.

What about next Nov. 3?

No one knows. But Barry Goldwater, who has the grace to admit he couldn't win now, is right when he says Nov. 3 is another horse race. He doesn't say he is going to win it, only that he will be running in it.

It's a long time until November — nearly four months.

ANYONE rash enough to predict at this point in July how things will have turned out by Nov. 4 when all the votes have been counted would have been rash enough to bet last Nov. 21 that John F. Kennedy would be running for re-election on the Democratic ticket and surmise that Hubert Humphrey would be his running mate, instead of Lyndon B. Johnson.

Legislative Reapportionment

A far-reaching study by a newly appointed Ohio apportionment committee will set off some far-reaching howling by defenders of the existing apportionment in the Ohio Legislature.

Some of the howling will be done by people who say the U.S. Supreme Court had no right to upset cozy arrangements whereby hundreds of legislators in various states, including Ohio, represented nothing but geography.

Some will be done by people who object instinctively to anything that changes existing patterns, whether the patterns can be justified or not.

Most of it will be done by ax-grinders with something to lose if the Ohio Legislature is reapportioned according to population, free from the now indefensible constitutional requirement that every one of Ohio's 88 counties must have one representative, regardless of population.

Forty-eight of Ohio's 88 counties cannot qualify for a representative under a constitutional quota system in accordance with the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling.

These counties would have to be combined into groups to justify representation. But would this be so drastic? Certainly not in Ohio, whose Senate is apportioned on a basis of 35 districts.

Only four Ohio counties, Hamilton, Cuyahoga, Lucas and Summit, are large enough to stand alone. Cuyahoga has six senators for its population, Lucas County one. But 84 counties are combined to form legislative districts, some with a single senator, some with several.

This has been done so equitably no one thinks drastic reapportionment would be needed for equal representation in the Ohio Senate. What would there be to howl about if the same pattern were carried over into the Ohio House?

What Would Ben Franklin Say?

Though most economists today discount any immediate danger from excessive borrowing, there is a minority opinion that continued installment spending may trip a trap door to depression.

The optimistic majority says the basic economy is far too strong and what's more, current loan delinquencies are "very low," indicating the ceiling on borrowing is far off. At the other end of the scale, the pessimists fear an economic collapse that "might be worse than 1929."

WORRYING the latter are statistics showing that from the average income of $6,720 last year, an average of $1,397—or 21 per cent — was pledged toward repayment of installment debts and mortgages. And year after year, debts grow faster than income. Since 1951 the debt burden has climbed from an average of 14 per cent of family income.

Personal loans are obtained for everything from household appliances to college tuition and trips abroad. Many borrowers are reported using mortgage loans for non-housing purposes, an action that one economist argues "tends to exhaust assets on which further borrowing can be done."

Another cause for alarm among the less optimistic is the increase of borrowing on life insurance, which increased $562 million the first four months this year, up nearly 6 per cent from the same period in 1963.

Alan Greenspan, president of a New York Economic consulting firm, reports that "about half of America's families owe installment debts" and "many are in debt right up to the hilt."

He further revealed that a quarter of the nation's 60 million families has at least a third of its annual income committed to paying off debts. He believes we are approaching a point above which many families would find it tough to take on further debts and, at the same time, keep up their repayment schedules.

ON THE CREDIT side of the ledger is the record of personal savings which also are at record high and nearly equal the nation's private debts. Savings last year reached $378 billion but the persons with substantial savings rarely are those paying off debts.

While a nation can spend and spend and charge off its debts to unborn generations, the individual is not so fortunate. The question involving the individual is: How long can he continue to pile up personal debts without overextending himself and the economy?

It is a vital question because much of the current business expansion and prosperity is fueled on credit.

One wonders what Ben Franklin would be saying were he alive today.

Find a Lunkhead

By Truman Twill

There is no such thing as an undecided voter in a presidential election.

Polls that say such-and-such a percentage of persons questioned have not made up their minds are bosh. Either they have no minds to make up or they quite properly think their decision is not the pollsters' business.

Every voter's mind is made up months before election day — even before the political conventions in many instances. The decision is automatic.

It is made by the falling into place of everything a voter has been influenced by since he began to think. It is like a conditioned reflex. It requires no conscious deliberation. It just happens.

IF THIS is so — and it is — political arguments are futile.

They are a waste of time. They are an insult to the intelligence of the people they are supposed to influence.

Actually the only thing accomplished by the hullabaloo of a presidential campaign is to stimulate interest in voting. Political professionals know this and say so. They have no illusions about changing the minds of voters who already have reached decisions.

But they do have ideas about reaching the minds of dopey citizens who might skip the balloting unless fired up by one means or another.

The professionals admit what the rest of us won't even think about, that a national election is an all-out emotional binge that happens once every four years and should be participated in by everybody . . . whoopee! The more confusion the better the chances.

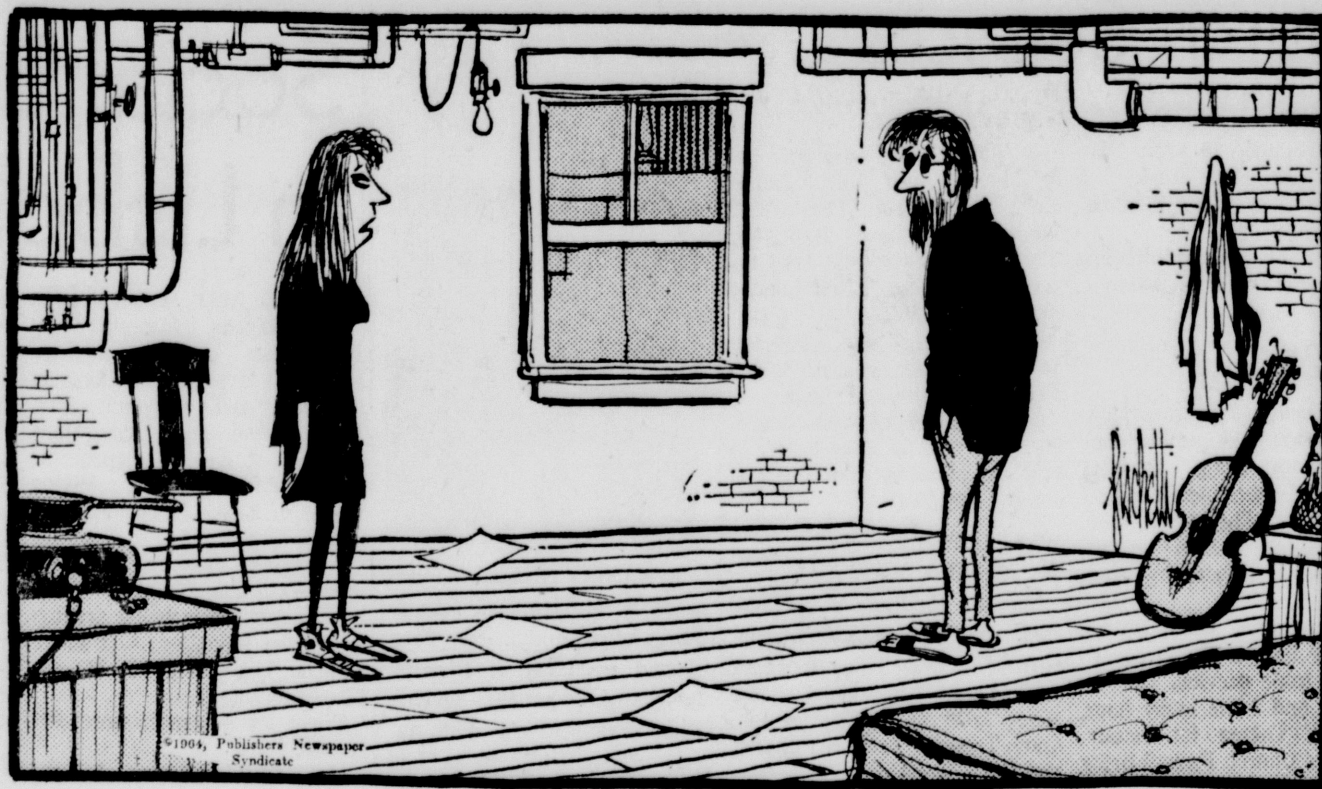

To the pros, it's show business. The idea is to fill the tent. They don't care what the spectators say as long as they show up at the polling places.

THESE THINGS being true, the dumbest thing one voting American can do to another voting American is to argue with him. There is nothing to be gained. There are no switches in faith among confirmed voters.

There can be converts to the creed that every American owes it to his birthright to vote, however.

And there is an obligation to see that no American shall be denied his birthright by the bully-boy tactics of plug-uglies afraid he might vote the wrong way. That's what the civil rights issue has been about for the last century. That's what it will be about for the next century.

Don't argue politics with a fellow citizen whose mind is made up. Just thank God he had a mind to make up and use your energy looking for a non-voting lunkhead you might be able to convert to your own misguided political philosophy.

Communism: False Ideology

While Victor Riesel is on a news gathering expedition in Africa and Eastern Europe, leaders in the business, professional and political life of the nation are pinch-hitting for him.

By J. EDGAR HOOVER
Director of the FBI

Knowledge without common sense is very unwise. If we do not understand what we learn, then our knowledge has absolutely no power. Today we know a great deal about international Communism, but do we fully understand the issue in this struggle between Communism and democracy for leadership of the world? Or is it that we fully understand but have become tired of hearing the truth?

Some of our commentators and writers recently have been telling us that Russian Communism is becoming more democratic; that it is moving nearer and nearer to our Western way of life; and that even the current rift between the Soviet Union and the Red Chinese is proof that we can trust the Russians—that we can deal with them on terms of mutual respect.

I wonder if we may be permitting our sincere and deep-seated longing for a peaceful world to dull our judgment? Certainly, there are many changes taking place today in the Communist world; however, these changes are primarily a rearrangement of the Communist structure to make tyranny more adaptable to the changing conditions of our era, changing conditions of our era.

MAKE NO MISTAKE, this attitude of hailing every change inside the Soviet as a sure sign that democracy is flowering behind the Iron Curtain can be dangerous.

While I have no argument with efforts to achieve a peaceful world, I do think it would be folly to ignore the fact that we are dealing with individuals whose goal is the destruction of legitimate governments. In our hungry desire for peace, we must guard against being deluded into sacrificing interests that are not ours to give away. Peace cannot be bought by a compromise with evil.

The real issue is freedom—a principle handed down to us by those serious-minded and dedicated men who made a reality of a dream of national sovereignty.

It's our solemn obligation to transmit that freedom to posterity — not to barter it away because we may lack the stamina to sustain loyalty to principle.

I have often called attention to the intensive program of the Communist party, U.S.A. I have cited pertinent facts which should be known to every citizen who considers himself well informed about international Communism.

THESE INCLUDED the fact that 40 million Communists now rule approximately one-third of the earth's 3 billion inhabitants and a fourth of her land surface.

That, like it or not, Communism exists legally or illegally in more than 70 free world countries, including our own. In the United States, international Communism is represented by an aggressively defiant party whose members have an unswerving allegiance to the Soviet Union.

This domestic party follows the dictates of Moscow, reflecting every significant change of direction or emphasis of policy, regardless of the consequences to our country.

And I pointed out that the Communist party, U.S.A. is currently attempting to exploit every problem of American society by stressing issues such as the racial situation, the reduction of military spending and the abolition of all internal security programs including those congressional committees investigating Communism.

THE COMMUNIST party, U.S.A. is also waging a relentless campaign to woo the youth of America into its ranks. The intensity of this effort is revealed by a statement made recently by Gus Hall, top-ranking national Communist party official. He spoke of the success the party had in placing Communist speakers on various college campuses all over the country and he said this youth program was so important that he or any other national leader would go anywhere to meet with young students even if but one student is met.

The action already taken by the party emphasizes Hall meant what he said. Top party spokesmen, skilled in imparting the Communist line with espousal, paralleling Soviet views, appeared before 45 college student groups during 1963. This drive is achieving success. Not too long ago Daniel Rubin, national youth director of the party, boasted that 65 per cent of the young people attracted in the party's latest recruiting drive were students.

OUR KNOWLEDGE of Communism must culminate in an implicit understanding that we are continually dealing with a false ideology — one that can assume many faces and one that can juggle words so that they have one sense in their premise but an entirely different sense in their conclusion.

Common sense must tell us that tyranny can take other forms than slave labor camps, firing squads and purge trials.

We must realize that peace cannot be purchased by a toleration of some of the excesses of Communism. We must understand there can be no hope for the relaxation of the sufferings of mankind under Communism except through logical thinking and action, and through a resolute facing of the world as it is, when the mask of make-believe is stripped off.

This deadly struggle will not be won by "half-way" Americans to whom life in this country is only the enjoyment of rights and privileges devoid of responsibilities. Its success may well depend on whether we are still capable of meeting John Hancock's devotion to the cause of freedom. When told that lifting the siege of Boston would probably mean the complete destruction of the houses and other real estate on which his wealth was based, Hancock said: "... if the liberties of our country require their being burnt to ashes—issue the order for that purpose immediately!"

Public Call For Integrity

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Integrity in the executive branch of the government — or, indeed the lack of it — is really one of the most important issues before the American people today but it will probably not even be mentioned in either party platform or during the presidential campaign.

The tragic truth is that the buying of votes with public funds is tolerated on a large scale and that government departments make decisions not on the basis of what is right for the country as a whole, but of what is advantageous for particular political party. Ninety per cent of the appointees to federal judgeships in recent years have come from the incumbent party and this is the case also with practically all of the U.S. district attorneys, most of whom are trained to look at things from a political angle.

These malpractices are not confined to Democratic administrations. They have happened under Republican administrations, too. There seems to be a feeling inside the government that the people don't really care and the official authority as well as public funds can be used for political purposes.

PERHAPS THE MOST serious situation that requires nationwide attention relates to the enforcement of federal law. The Department of Justice is not by any stretch of the imagination a department that always seeks to administer justice. It's a department that is to no small extent concerned with what might be called "political justice" — advantages to a political party.

Even in the prosecution of many civil cases, the Department of Justice makes political decisions. The Federal Corrupt Practices Act, for example, is being repeatedly violated as both labor organizations and companies help to finance political campaigns, though the statute forbids such contributions.

It might be thought that Congress would long ago have thoroughly investigated the operations of the Department of Justice, but it hasn't done so. The custom of dealing on a political basis with important issues before the department has, therefore, grown and grown.

There is only one remedy for this situation — to remove the Department of Justice from the cabinet and to make it an independent agency responsible to the people through Congress. This is the arrangement under which the General Accounting Office now is being operated.

The head of the agency is appointed by the president with the consent of the Senate and holds office for 15 years. The employees are in the Civil Service and in no way related to the political apparatus. Congress holds a constant check over this agency.

MANY OF THE cases involving civil actions by the Department of Justice are highly important to the nation's economy. The antitrust laws, for example, are vaguely written and should depend for their enforcement on impartial and dedicated public servants. There are many such men inside the Department of Justice, but they often are frustrated by what a Republican or a Democratic attorney general tells them they can or cannot do.

It's important for the nation that no monopolies shall be established, but a business, because it is big, should not be treated any differently than a small business if either transgresses the law. In the economic development of the United States, many industries are being dominated by a few companies while marginal businesses are gradually being forced to the wall.

If this is a natural economic evolution, very little can be done about it. But if conspiracies to restrain trade are going on, it is a function of the Department of Justice to prosecute, irrespective of the influence that may be exerted on the department to keep its hands off.

THE PROBLEM of enforcing civil rights legislation now is before the country. But in the last few years there have been instances where the Department of Justice has played politics or has been responsive to political pressure. Thus, there really was no constitutional justification for sending federal troops into the states of Arkansas or Mississippi. Yet pressure groups are today exerting their influence to try to get the Department of Justice again to militarize its operations in the South, though no such suggestions are heard with reference to the growing disturbances in Northern states where similar demonstrations are being conducted by some of these same organizations.

The whole system of justice in America needs revision so that politics will be removed from it. This cause could be advanced by taking the Department of Justice out of the Cabinet and making it an independent agency.

The power to do so rests with Congress but it will never act unless public opinion is informed on the issue, makes up its mind what ought to be done, and then insists on action.

History Today

Today is Friday, July 10, the 192nd day of 1964. There are 174 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1943, American troops, cooperating with British and Canadian forces, began the invasion of Sicily. More than a month of heavy fighting followed until German and Italian defenders fled across the Strait of Messina.

On this date: In 1850, Millard Fillmore was inaugurated president, succeeding Zachary Taylor, who died the day before.

In 1890, Wyoming, the 44th state, was admitted to the Union.

In 1919, President Woodrow Wilson gave the Senate the Versailles Treaty along with the covenant of the League of Nations.

Johnson and the Tariff

By JOSEPH R. SLEVIN
WASHINGTON — President Johnson soon will get a chance to show where he stands on the sensitive question of giving special tariff protection to American companies.

The U.S. Tariff Commission will send new findings in four important cases to his desk during the coming months. One is the controversial watch tariff increase that infuriated the Swiss when President Eisenhower imposed it in 1954. Another is a two-year-old special tax on foreign sheet glass that incited the European Common Market countries to place retaliatory curbs on a number of American products.

A fresh look is being taken at the penalty taxes on lead and zinc and on stainless steel table flatware, Canada Mexico, and a number of other near-neighbors sell us the lead and zinc. The stainless knives and forks come chiefly from Japan and West Germany.

THE AMERICAN people are paying steeper prices for all of these items because the normal duties were increased to protect domestic companies against foreign competition.

The extra charges were imposed under a so-called "escape clause" that the United States uses to take back concessions that this country gave other nations in past tariff-cutting negotiations.

The angriest dispute is the one that has swirled around watches. It is the oldest escape clause and penalty for it has been in effect for 10 years. President Eisenhower boosted watch tariffs a huge 50 per cent at the urging of the American manufacturers.

The escape clause cases are coming up again now because the 1962 Trade Expansion Act stresses that curbs against foreign products are to remain in force only long enough to give an affected industry time to adjust.

Foreign countries are keeping a very close watch on the four review cases. They complain that there is little point in trying to develop a market here, for American companies get the President to raise the tariffs as soon as people start buying their goods in large quantities.

The cases will be the first escape clause actions to come before President Johnson. President Eisenhower rejected many more tariff boosts than he adopted and so did President Kennedy.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON is under a special kind of pressure to lean toward the freer trade side. He wants to create a favorable mood among the key European countries for the "Kennedy round" of tariff cutting that is to start next year, and he would like to soften European complaints against excessively high "disparities" such as the watch tariff.

If the Tariff Commission reports that the duties on imported watches can be reduced without a severe impact on American companies, the expectation is that Mr. Johnson will follow through by slashing the 50 per cent penalty tax.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the woman who signed her letter "Exaggerated Grief?". She was criticizing a friend who fell apart at the funeral service of her husband. The writer hinted that the widow might be a candidate for an Academy Award, since her husband had been ill for a long time and his death came as no surprise.

Your answer seemed to support the mourner. You said, "The death of a loved one—expected or not—can be a traumatic experience." Candidly, Ann, I was surprised at the answer.

Highly civilized, cultured, well-educated individuals are in control of themselves at all times. The more primitive the people, the noisier the funeral.

I believe in the therapeutic value of tears. But the shedding of tears should be private. Public exhibition of grief is a sign of ignorance and weakness.—FROM IOWA.

Der Iowa: How wonderful if all of us could be in perfect control of our emotions at all times. Humans—since we are human—cannot always achieve this level of perfection. Even machines have been known to break down occasionally.

The notion that only the weak and ignorant shed tears in public indicates such a lack of compassion that I would not dignify the observation by commenting further.

Dear Ann Landers: In your column recently a wife wrote that she was disturbed because her husband had come home from a stag party where two girls did strip acts. You told the wife she should not be thrown off balance by a "cheap little bimbo whose major talent is parading at stags in the altogether."

For the first time in my life I feel I should defend my profession. I have been an exotic dancer (I prefer this to "stripper") for 12 years. I am no cheap little bimbo but a hard-working woman who paid taxes on $40,000 last year.

When I finished my schooling in the East at age 16, I went to work in the office of a major TV network. In the 10 months I worked there I received more indecent proposals and pinches on my posterior than in the 12 years I have been doing my act.

There can be artistry and taste in exotic dancing. I'm told I have a regal bearing which makes men respect me. The average male would think twice before he tried to pinch a woman who buys her own diamonds and minks—and travels with a 200-pound drummer.

Since you claim to be fair, Ann, I hope you will print my letter and give the customers an eyeful.—T.N.T.

Dear Dynamite: I try always to be fair and here is your letter. As for "giving the customers an eyeful"—that's your line, thank you.

Chummy Crumb

Dear Ann: Have you noticed that service employees are becoming chummy and chummiest? I have, and I don't like it. My butcher always greets me with "Hello, Honey," or "What will you have today, Dear?" I find this embarrassing, particularly when someone I know is standing near.

Am I wrong to feel as I do? Should I say something to the man? Thank you.—OLD FASHIONED.

Dear Old-Fashioned: If the butcher asked for a date or offered to deliver the pork chops in person you'd have a legitimate beef—no pun intended.

A "Hello, Honey" should not offend you. If it's more than you can stand, however, ask him to call you "Mrs. Glockenspeil" in the future. You might also prepare yourself for some stringy roasts and tough 1-Bones.

Permissive Parents

Dear Ann: Is it wrong to discipline the children of guests? I have two friends who bring their youngsters over regularly. One little 2½-year-old boy is into everything. He is fast as lightning and unless someone keeps an eye on him every minute he can take a whole house apart.

The boy's mother is one of these "relaxed" types who never sees anything. I have to take matches out of the child's mouth, ash trays out of his hands and move the candy dish on the mantel or he would eat every piece. He has torn up my magazines and broken my records. His mother is always "sorry" but that's as far as it goes. She says, "I hate to be hard on Jerry because it might destroy his natural curiosity. Children need to investigate."

How about this?—ROBINETTE.

Dear Robin: You have not been "disciplining" the boy, you've attempted to protect your property, and the boy against his lack of training.

The child who is permitted everything and anything at home will try for anything and everything when he's out. His mother is failing him—badly. A youngster who does not learn what NO means is bound to find the world a frustrating and unhappy place to live in and will forever be at odds with those around him. This is how misfits are made.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ORDINANCE NO. 640602-67
Introduced by: Mr. Zimmerman
BEING AN ORDINANCE DECLARING THE NECESSITY OF A BOND ISSUE AND PROVIDING FOR THE PAYMENT OF THE SAME BY SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS BY THE AFFECTED PROPERTY OWNERS FOR THE PURPOSE OF IMPROVING OHIO AVENUE AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.
NOW THEREFORE BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SALEM, STATE OF OHIO:

SECTION I.
That it is determined necessary to issue bonds of the City of Salem in the principal sum of $2,764,088 which sum will not exceed the amount of the bond issue. Said notes shall be issued in the rate of 4% per annum payable at maturity. Said notes shall be dated the 3rd day of June 1964, and shall mature on the 2nd day of June 1965, and shall be executed and delivered in such number and such denominations as may be requested by the purchaser of said notes.

SECTION II.
That for the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay the interest on the foregoing issue of bonds promptly, when and as the same falls due, and also to provide a fund sufficient to discharge said bonds at maturity, there shall be and there is hereby levied on all the taxable property in said City of Salem in addition to all other taxes, a direct tax annually during the period said bonds are to run in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay interest upon said bonds as and when the same falls due and also to provide a fund for the discharge of the principal of said bond at maturity, which tax shall not be less than the interest and sinking fund tax required by Article XII-S-II of the Constitution. Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered, computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected, said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levies hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which together with all interest collected on the same, shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest and principal of said bonds when and as the same falls due.

SECTION III.
That this Ordinance is hereby determined to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety in the City of Salem, and shall go into immediate effect for the reason that it is immediately necessary to make said funds available to preserve the credit standing of the City of Salem.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: Have you ever ironed a freshly laundered blouse or shirt and found an underarm odor is still there?

I keep a bottle of vinegar in my utility room and before washing these items, I tip the bottle lightly under each sleeve of the garment, rub it, and, presto, it removes any odor. Then I wash as usual.

I have used this method for many years and have found it will not damage any washable material.

VETA MINDERMAN. DEAR VETA: Vinegar is also excellent when rinsing socks.

After washing the socks and rinsing as usual, re-rinse in a basin of water to which has been added about one-third cup of vinegar. I usually let them sit a few minutes, then wring the socks out and let them dry.

I do not rinse this vinegar water out. The odor of the vinegar will leave once the socks have dried.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: With nine grandchildren to sew and mend for, buttons are always at a premium.

So now when I make a new garment I sew extra buttons to match the garments on the inside along a seam—and when needed they are there and ready to use.

MRS. FENTON BRUBAKER.

DEAR HELOISE: One of my most helpful household hints is to use hair spray to stop a stocking run or hole—instead of fingernail polish. The spray washes out nicely when you are ready to mend the run.

MRS. F. C.

DEAR HELOISE: When I repair the cracks in our plaster walls, I mix the plaster with vinegar water instead of plain water. I use half water and half vinegar.

I find that vinegar keeps the plaster from setting quickly; it's soft like putty and I can push it into the cracks and smooth it to perfection. By dipping a paint brush in water and "painting" the repaired place, then using a trowel or spatula, I have a perfect surface.

Most of us who have plaster in our homes know that when you mix a batch of it for patching those holes, nicks and cracks, that it gets hard before you can complete the job.

I am sure that millions of people would love to know this trick. $

ARNOLD L. I asked two plasterers if this man was right. They blushed and smiled but admitted that it was so! Professionals don't often tell their secrets, do they?

Thanks, Arnold for keeping me on my toes.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: My hint is for all banana lovers.

When making that banana cream pie, use your egg slicer for perfect uniform slices and cut down on the time spent slicing with a pairing knife.

Break off lengths of the banana the size of the slicer—then... kerplunk, you have nine slices with one swoop of the slicer.

This is keen for slicing bananas for morning cereal, for garnishes, etc.

If you're like the majority of us, on a busy time schedule and trying to get the most mileage out of the fewest number of minutes, you've probably dispensed with "time-consuming" baths in favor of quickie showers. As a change of pace, take time out at least a couple of nights a week for a long, relaxing, before-bedtime bath. Soak out the day's tiredness and tension; soak in beauty dividends.

Your bath water should be pleasantly warm, not hot. Add a cap full of bath oil, one that has marvelous skin-softening and protecting qualities. Let it be delightfully perfumed, too.

Or try a frothy liquid bubble bath, if you prefer. Then lie back luxuriously. Rest your head on a folded towel propped against the back of the tub. Close your eyes—and relax.

When you're ready for soaping, make sure your bath bar is creamy smooth, rich-lathering and free of damaging-to-the-skin alkalis. This relaxing time can be put to very good use if you take advantage of the opportunity to take a miracle treatment at the same time.

Cream your face and neck generously with all-purpose cream first, and tissue off. Then apply the greatest complexion care product of them all—the miracle liquid that you brush on your face and rinse off with clear cold water—for the prettiest complexion you've ever had.

Follow your bath with a liberal application of fragrant hand and body lotion, with special emphasis on arms, legs and shoulders. For a last luxurious touch, pat on chiffon-fine dusting powder. And so to bed.

Wake up in the morning rested, relaxed, and ready to meet the challenge of a new day.

Then write or phone me for an appointment for a free hour of beauty—a very special complimentary make-up. O.K.?

Shave and Haircut

By STEPHEN BROENING
For Hal Boyle

BALTIMORE Md. (AP)—You can still get a shave and a haircut for six bits—as long as you're not too fastidious and your nerves are all right.

"Haircuts 50 cents," a sign at the Maryland Barber School promises, "shaves 25 cents."

Inside the school at the end of two long rows of barber chairs here hangs another sign that declares:

"All work done by students only."

Almost all. The student who was cutting my hair bore down a bit hard with the clippers and exposed some scalp above and behind my ear.

"Mr. Amico," he implored quietly. Mr. Amico—the barber in residence—scampered over and in a few moments of spirited snipping had repaired the damage, or so he said.

The student continued and neither of us spoke of his mistake.

To qualify for a barber's license a student must complete 900 hours of supervised hair-cutting and shaving. This is a fact well known by the school's regular customers.

By now my student was far enough along to begin trimming my sideburns with a razor. He did it gingerly.

Even if no one told you that you were being ministered to by a novice, you would know it by a hundred little signs.

My student, for example, asked me to turn my head to the left. A journeyman barber would never do that. He would grip the top of your head like a coconut and give it a twist in the desired direction.

The student was finished now and it gave him an opportunity to display what was apparently his tour de force—the removal of the cotton sheet that keeps the hair off you.

With a flourish he snatched it from my chest and in one motion whirled it in a tight arc and snapped it, sending hair flying in most directions.

His first strokes with the razor were high on the right cheek, furtive little scraping motions. He went on and I could hear him counting under his breath.

I later learned that a person is shaved in 14 steps: the first below the right sideburn—with a free hand stroke—the last in the hollow below the lip—with a reverse free hand stroke.

At step No. 13 the razor is at the jugular vein. It was at this point that I congratulated myself for suffering the student's haircutting mistake quietly. The student and I communicated freely our lack of confidence in him—by swallowing nervously and sending my Adam's apple bounding toward the edge of the blade; he by perspiring and quivering with the razor.

At step No. 14 he was on firmer ground and the worst was over. "There," he said, at last scratching the hollow below my lip.

As I paid him I thought to ask, "by the way, how many hours have you got?" "Oh," he said "at the end of the day I'll have 47."

Deaths Funerals

Charles Eutzly

CANTON — Charles E. Eutzly, 88, of 2821 Harrisburg Rd. NE died of complications at 6:04 a.m. today at the home of his son, Olen, in Canton, following an illness of several months.

A retired employee of the Harvey Loeher Lumber Co., he was preceded in death by his wife, Nora, formerly of Salem, in 1961.

Also surviving are another son, Lowell B. of Alliance; three sisters, Mrs. Effie Reichard and Mrs. Minnie Domino of Alliance and Mrs. May Wolf of Marlboro; three grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Services will be at 2:30 p.m. Monday at the Schneeberger Funeral Home at 1137 N. Market Ave. Burial will be in Warbler Cemetery. Friends may call Sunday at the funeral home.

Barry

who declined to be named publicly, said the unofficial count of the senator's strength had mounted to 771 votes.

So strong was the belief of most party leaders that Goldwater had the nomination in hand that discussion of his possible vice presidential running mate was the main topic of interest.

Rep. William E. Miller of New York, the GOP national chairman, finally came out and said what was abundantly evident for days, that he would accept second place on any ticket, Goldwater's or Scranton's.

Asked about a possible running mate, Goldwater didn't rule out anybody. He said he hadn't made up his mind.

Asked if Scranton might be his choice, the Arizona senator replied that the nominees on the ticket ought to be comfortable in campaigning together. He noted Scranton had called him "ignorant, cowardly, backward, impulsive and a shooter-from-the-hipper."

Nevertheless, Denison Kitchel, Goldwater's campaign manager, said in an interview that if his principal wins the top nomination Scranton will be "one of those considered" for the second place spot.

Other developments in a day which was marked by Goldwater's arrival in this city where the nominating convention will open Monday:

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, embarking by train at Harrisburg, Pa., for San Francisco, told a news conference: "I am showing no partiality to anyone. I've been completely consistent in this and I have doublecrossed no one." This seemed to bury Scranton's fading hopes of a dramatic last-minute endorsement by the general.

Goldwater said on his arrival the chances are excellent that he will win on the first ballot and afterwards Republicans will "march forward together to defeat Lyndon Baines Johnson in November."

The platform committee edged toward a final countdown on planks that Goldwater said he is confident will be satisfactory to him. However, if the platform is one that he felt he couldn't live with as the nominee "I would do the honest thing and withdraw."

Looking toward November, Goldwater said that segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace might turn out to be a "greater determinant" than either he or President Johnson on the outcome in the South, particularly if Wallace is able to get his name on the ballot on a score or more of states. Wallace's announced intention is to deny the major party candidates a majority in the electoral college and throw the choice of the next president to the House where each state would have one vote.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., the convention's permanent chairman, made public plans to telescope the meetings instead of five next week, with the windup coming on Thursday night.

RULED MENTALLY UNFIT

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Susan Jane Williams, 28, of New Miami has been found mentally incapable of standing trial for the dismemberment slaying of her husband, Roosevelt, 57.

Robert L. Marrs, Butler County prosecutor, says doctors at Lima State Hospital have informed him Mrs. Williams, a former mental patient, is now unfit to stand trial for first-degree murder. Authorities say she admitted stabbing her husband during a quarrel on May 1 and tried to dispose of portions of his body along Four Mile Creek.

Robert Tubbs Dies On Canada Vacation

Robert Daniel Tubbs, 64, time-keeper at the Mullins Manufacturing Corp., Youngstown Kitchen Div. where he has been employed for the past 41 years, died unexpectedly today at 1:30 a.m. while vacationing with his wife, Mary Alice, in Timmins, Ontario, Canada.

Tubbs had been away from his job the past two months due to illness.

He started timekeeping at Mullins in 1923 and also worked for a time as a supervisor in the standards department.

He was born in Erie, Pa., March 17, 1900, and has been a prominent member here of the Knights of Columbus, Eagles Lodge and Independent Hose Co. In the K. of C. for many years, he has held posts of Grand Knight, district deputy and trustee.

will receive the balance of $251,000 after land purchases have been completed. The latter sum will be used to clear the property and build the dam, he said. He added it is hoped the work will begin by fall.

The land is being used at present as a state game preserve.

Wetzel said he had held talks July 1 with four members of the State Controlling Board who assured him they would approve the county's $375,000 request. The men are Jerry Donahue, Hugh Jenkins, Otto Stock Jr. and Ralph Fisher.

States "are better off than those of any other nation in the world."

But he said there is a long struggle ahead to achieve equality for all and added that "the racial problem will not be solved by a piece of legislation."

"Before you can change society you have to change the hearts of men," he declared.

The Graham organization has predicted that crowds from throughout the state will fill the baseball stadium nightly for the crusade. The stadium ordinarily seats around 12,000 but with addition of chairs to the infield it may hold at least 20,000.

Ikeda Re-Elected by Liberal-Democrats

TOKYO (AP)—Premier Hayato Ikeda was assured another two years as head of the Japanese government today.

Ikeda's Liberal - Democratic party elected him to a third term as party president, but the vote revealed a widening rift in the ruling party. The Liberal-Democrats control the lower house by a big majority, and the party chairman is automatically premier.

Ikeda received 242 votes, a majority of only nine votes. He beat off challenges by two major rivals.

Real Estate Tax Payments Lagging

LISBON — Columbiana County Treasurer Vincent C. Judge announced today that a total of $1,329,985 in real estate taxes for last-half of 1963 has been paid.

The deadline for the payment of these taxes is July 15 and the estimated collection for this half was listed at $3,150,000, leaving a balance of $1,820,015 yet to be collected in the last four days.

garden through sixth grades, $3 annually for junior and senior high; $8 a year for 24-hour coverage in elementary grades; and $10 a year for day-long coverage for upper grades.

Also authorized was the payment of $218.07 to the county welfare department for the tuition of a student attending Retarded School classes at Elkton.

Permission was granted to the executive head to attend the hearing on state school bus purchases at Columbus Monday and a "Campaign College" at Ohio State University Tuesday for Ohio schools with financial issues on the November ballot.

The Fairfield - Waterford district will have a $350,000 bond issue for construction, a 3.6-mill operating levy (renewal) and a 0.4 additional levy on the ballot this fall.

It was announced that the varsity cheerleaders will hold a dance with music by the Crescendos at Crestview High School next Friday.

Driscoll said the board will receive bids until the next regular meeting Aug. 13 for coal, bread and milk for the September opening.

Lisbon Woman Gets Suspended Sentence

LISBON — Violet Kernich, 27, of RD 3, Lisbon, arrested on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of her six-year-old son, was given a suspended term of one year in the Marysville Reformatory by Judge Louis Tobin yesterday.

The sentence was withheld on the condition that she not associate with certain people. Temporary custody of her child was given to a brother, who filed the charge against her. Reports to the court will be made monthly by the county welfare department.

Damascus

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Berger entertained at dinner honoring Mr. and Mrs. Ross Mounts of Olympia, Wash. Relatives in attendance were Mrs. Leonard Mounts of Melling, Germany, Mrs. Richard Baylor of Atwater, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Bye of Beloit, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bye of Sebring, Mrs. Octave Talaba of Alliance, David Westphal of Salem and Mrs. Delilah Penny of Westville. A decorated cake, honoring the hosts' granddaughter, Renee Penny, on her 10th birthday, was served.

East Goshen

Mission Helpers of the East Goshen Friends Church were entertained by Mrs. Clyde Whitacre with devotions conducted by Miss Ruth Mellott. During the business session, Mrs. Earl Barnes, Mrs. William Miller and Mrs. Clarence Mellott were appointed delegates to Ohio Yearly Meeting of Friends which will convene in Damascus Aug. 25 - 30.

Mrs. Leroy Osberg was in charge of missionary news and prayer requests and read letters from Formosa and India. The program was presented by Mrs. Clarence Mellott, and sewing occupied the handwork. Lunch was served by Mrs. Whitacre.

Mrs. Ralph Moore will receive the group Aug. 5.

Elsie Matti Missionary Circle will meet Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Leroy Osberg for a picnic dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Kay Davis of Riverside, Calif., are visiting his father, Alva Davis, and her mother, Mrs. Daniel Kraft.

Harding

gress or some other institution and sealed for 50 years.

Many of the letters were written on the stationery of the U.S. Senate, in which Harding served before becoming president, or on postcards bearing his picture. They were signed "Warren" or Warren G. Harding, or with the code name "Constant."

Mrs. Phillips, whose husband operated the Uhler-Phillips Department Store in Marion, died in 1960. After many years as a recluse, she passed her last days in an institution for the aged maintained by public welfare.

Donald Williamson, a Marion lawyer who had been appointed her guardian, found the letters in a locked closet in the large house that had been Mrs. Phillips' last home. She had lived there with six dogs.

The letters — jumbled and slightly discolored but otherwise in good condition — were in a large cardboard shoebox. Some of them were brief. Others ran to 35 to 40 pages.

Mrs. Phillips' given name was Carrie, and Harding addressed her by that name or by the code name "Sis." One letter, dated only "Easter morning," begins with the salutation "Carrie Darling Sweetheart Adorable."

Another letter, dated Christmas 1914, and headed "The Seventh Anniversary," includes this poem:

I love you more than all the world.
Possession wholly imploring mid passion I am oft times whirled

Oftimes admire — adoring.
Oh, God! fate would only give Us privilege to love and live!

Some time in 1920, Harding wrote to Mrs. Phillips that he could not "secure you the larger competence you have so frequently mentioned." He added: "I can pay with life or reputation, but I can't command such a sum."

"To avoid disgrace," the presidential nominee wrote, "I will if you demand it as the price, return to Marion to reside...if you think I can be more helpful by having a public position and influence...I will pay you $5,000 per year, in March each year, so long as I am in that public service."

In "Warren Gamaliel Harding," a book published about 1920, William Estabrook Chancellor, a former professor at Wooster College in Ohio, wrote that Mrs. Phillips and Harding "often visited together at Upper Sandusky."

Chancellor said Republican leaders knew about the visits and sent an influential political figure to give Mrs. Phillips money to go to Japan. The amount, Chancellor said, was to be $25,000 and $2,000 a month.

The only other published allusions to Mrs. Phillips are in William Allen Whites "Masks in a Pageant," published in 1928, and in Samuel Hopkins Adams' "Incredible Era," published in 1939. Neither book included her name.

ANNEXATION APPROVED

Columbiana County commissioners Thursday accepted the addition of a plat of land to the City of Salem. The plat, Robert Cox's first addition to the city, includes Sections 31 and 32 of Township 16 at RD 3, Salem.

Commissioners also approved a plat of Robert Cox's first addition to the city, consisting of 8.83 acres in Section 32 of Perry Township. The land consists of 20 lots of 7.43 acres and streets of 1.40 acres.

Fund

er revenue into the general fund because it will lose its "identity." "Whenever the auditor gives a report on the amount of money in the general fund, she won't say that so much of the total is parking meter funds," the mayor said.

"And Council will say 'We have some extra money, let's do this or that' and pretty soon it will be all gone," he added.

COUNCIL AND THE MAYOR agree that $12,000 of the meter money should be transferred into the general fund to meet the payroll July 30.

Mrs. Coyne said the figure of $50,000, which was believed to be the amount in the parking meter fund, is actually closer to $41,000 because she had purchased street improvement notes amounting to $8,044 from the fund.

The move, which she said is legal, will net the city about $319 in interest when the notes expire in one year. They are to pay the owners' share of the expense of improvements to W. State St. and S. Ellsworth Ave. She said if the parking meter fund is not eliminated, she will invest another $18,000 in the same manner for the improvement of Ohio Ave.

Mayor Cranmer questioned the legality of the move. "The solicitor told us that money cannot be transferred out of the fund." Then how can the money be used for the purchase of notes?

"And another thing," the mayor said, "if the money is to be paid back to the parking meter fund and the fund is abolished, do the notes still have to be paid?"

THE MAYOR POINTED OUT that since the total is not $50,000 as was presumed, the ordinance passed by Council transferring the money from the parking meter fund to the general fund will have to be amended.

Councilmen, in general, also wished to make sure that parking meter funds will not "disappear," and it was their idea Tuesday to place money not used for payrolls for the last pay in July into the equipment reserve fund.

The mayor and Council believed, erroneously according to the auditor, that money left in the general fund at the end of the year would be "lost" in re-appropriation.

Mrs. Coyne said that if Council wants to "save" the money for emergency use it can be "hidden" in the appropriation by placing it in the contingency fund (which according to law can be no more than three per cent of the total appropriation) or in the miscellaneous street repair fund as was done this year.

"Actually, Council doesn't even have to appropriate all the income it anticipates for the year if it doesn't want to," the auditor said. "It can just show that the city expects to have a balance at the end of the year."

MRS. COYNE SAID that many persons believe that if the city shows that it expects to have money left over at the end of a year, the county holds back tax funds. "This is not true," she declared. "We get our tax money regardless."

Mrs. Coyne said that if the parking meter fund isn't eliminated so that she can use $12,000 to meet the end-of-month payroll, she will ask Council for an ordinance permitting her to borrow that amount, as has been done in the past.

She said that the only reason she asked for the money from the parking meter fund was so that the city would not have to pay interest on a loan. "Also," she said, "if the revenue is borrowed, the first money placed in the general fund after that must be used to pay off the loan and could lead to the necessity of borrowing money again to meet the payroll of Aug. 15."

The auditor related that extra money necessary to make payrolls for the rest of 1964 because of the municipal employes' pay hike, which was effective July 1, can be transferred from the miscellaneous street repair and contingency funds.

THE AUDITOR said that it was decided at a meeting in her office Wednesday, attended by Charles Gibbs, a member of the finance committee, and Solicitor Tom Coe, to list as anticipated revenue for 1965, a transfer of $20,000 from the parking meter fund, which may not have been eliminated by the time the budget is sent to the County Budget Commission for study.

The auditor said $18,000 of the amount was needed to balance the budget with the additional $2,000 placed into the contingency fund.

Actually, Mrs. Coyne said, it would have simplified matters if, instead of eliminating the parking meter fund, Council had just amended the ordinance setting it up, so that the money could be transferred into the general fund when necessary.

Funds from the meters are presently "earmarked" to be used for repair and purchase of meters and retirement of bonds on the municipal parking lot at the corner of Penn Ave. and Pershing St.

Mrs. Coyne said she was advised by Solicitor Coe that he felt to make such an amendment would not be legal.

Coe, when questioned by The News, said that if the amendment was made, making it possible for Council to draw revenue from the parking meter fund to pay bills and payroll, in effect all it would be is "a general fund called by a funny name."

BUY NEW CAR

LISBON — Columbiana county commissioners yesterday purchased a new 1964 Chevrolet for the sealer of weights and measures. Low bidder was Columbiana Motors at a bid of $1695, with a trade-in of a 1960 Chevrolet. Other bidders were Parker Chevrolet of Salem $1737; Brittain Chevrolet, East Palestine, $1757 and Wooley Chevrolet of Leetonia, $1810.

STOPS HICCUPPING — Mrs. Lucy McDonald, above, of Atlanta, Ga., has finally stopped hiccupping after nearly a year. She started her bout with the hiccups on July 8, 1963. Remedy came from a druggist for whom she works. The druggist says he cannot divulge the remedy because he is not a physician and cannot prescribe.

Tshombe Sworn In As Congo Premier

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Moise Tshombe, who for more than two years tried to keep his Katanga Province out of the Congo Republic, became premier of that republic today and swore his loyalty to it.

Tshombe and eight of the 12 members of his new Cabinet went to President Joseph Kasavubu's residence overlooking the Congo River rapids and pledged "fidelity to the Congo and to the chief of state."

Two of Tshombe's new ministers, Minister of National Economy Jean Eboisiri and Minister of Education Frederic Baloiwure, couldn't get to Leopoldville in time, so hastily was the government put together.

Kasavubu charged Tshombe and his ministers to advance the Congo's economy and its social services.

The Congo, torn by political and tribal rivalries for four years, now looks to Tshombe for the peace and dynamic leadership he promised when he returned from exile in Spain two weeks ago.

He also is to prepare for elections early next year.

When Tshombe returned to his guest house following the ceremony, several hundred persons pressed against the fence shouting "Out with Aduola." Tshombe greeted his admirers with his customary gesture of raised arms and a big smile.

Cyrille Aduola, the outgoing premier, denied reports that he delayed the installation by failing to sign Kasavubu's order naming Tshombe. In a communique Aduola said he hadn't been asked to sign.

emergency and rescue squad.

The plane smashed into the side of a hill known as Tremham Hollow. Bodies, personal effects and wreckage were strewn over a half-square mile area. One engine rolled 150 feet to the bottom of the hill. A wing section was the largest piece of wreckage.

The wreckage still was burning when the first rescue squads arrived.

It was United's first fatal crash since Nov. 23, 1962.

CITED AFTER MISHAP

Dennis R. Zabawa, 17, of 541 N. Lincoln Ave., was cited by city police for following too closely at 8:03 p.m. Thursday at the intersection of State St. and Lundy Ave. The Zabawa auto struck an auto driven by Velma J. Mohr, 36, of 448 W. State St. which was stopped for traffic at the intersection.

civil rights law, opposing giving military chiefs the decision on firing atomic weapons and opposing making Social Security voluntary.

The Pennsylvania urged a strong civil rights plank (Goldwater voted against the 1964 civil rights bill), specific condemnation of The John Birch Society and a foreign policy "free from rash and impulsive actions."

Later Scranton held a hurriedly called news conference to demand that Goldwater give the committeemen today a transcript of the senator's recent interview in the German magazine, Der Spiegel.

Parts of the Der Spiegel story have been in the news before. Thursday Scranton voiced alarm at a portion of the interview in which Goldwater was quoted as saying that as president he would make "the decision to win" in South Viet Nam and then told the chiefs of staff, "now the problem is yours."

Goldwater did not dispute the interview attributed to him but said he did not have a transcript.

a demand from the Ohio Contractors Association for "weather pay."

Rhodes, who left Thursday for the Republican National Convention, said "however important the convention in San Francisco is, nothing is more important than keeping highway construction going in Ohio."

He asked the union to reconsider its June 21 strike approval vote of 218-174, saying "so few voted on it."

Officials say a walkout would halt all state highway construction, idle 25,000 workers and affect county and city projects, too.

TV-Radio Today

By ALAN GILL
The Terrible-Tempered

Joe Flynn, who plays the terrible-tempered Capt. Binghamton in ABC's unsinkable comedy series "McHale's Navy," was originally piped aboard as the sweet but fat-headed Ensign Charles Parker, who is played by Tom Conway.

Alan Gill

"I'd always had the Ensign Parker kind of role," said Flynn over lunch last week. (He had waded ashore onto Manhattan Island while en route between London and Hollywood.) "But then Tom had come along and was just right for it. The only part left to me was the Captain. I went to MCA which owns the studio and a good part of the known world. Since they were my agents they knew my true age, which was 36 at the time, too young to be a four-stripe veteran officer. But it was the Captain or nothing at that point."

"Ever since, everyone thinks I'm 35 years old. I'm only 37. If only I'd landed Tom's part, people wouldn't be helping me into cabs."

JOE FLYNN'S delineation of the role has changed, he said, "only a little." "At the start, I felt I had to take advice from every angle, and I did. Now it's all settled down and I play it my own way and the directors don't have so many suggestions to offer. One director at the beginning said, 'Make it crisp.' Now in terms of a salad I know what that means. I changed my voice a little, hoping he thought that I'd become more crisp, and it worked."

Is the Captain's character, Flynn was asked, anything like his own? "I'm afraid so," he said. "It's almost identical." But is his mail friendly? "Most of it comes from kids," he said, "and they've apparently got a fathers image of me. There's no bad mail, because I always get my comeuppance in the end, falling off a cliff or something, and they've got to feel sorry for this old fool. Hell, if I went around clapping men in irons, I'd get all kinds of stuff! My own kids, who are three and five, seem vastly unimpressed with my work. They watch TV all day and night — 'I Love Lucy,' 'I Married Joan,' 'I Grabbed Gertie,' or whatever — and then don't bat an eyelash when I come along."

FLYNN, WITH HIS sharp features and black-rimmed glasses, is recognized immediately wherever he sets foot in this country. "But going to Europe," he complained, "is like stepping out of a nice warm shower. In most of Europe, 'McHale's Navy' hasn't done too well. Most of TV there is government-owned and controlled and the governments do not take a light and funny attitude toward uniforms—though we're a big hit, strangely enough, in Spain."

"England signed us on for 13 weeks, but then cancelled out after 11. It seems that, with the closing of the British Admiralty and the First Lord's becoming in effect their 'Under Secretary of Defense,' the English can't see much that's funny in a Navy show. I would think we'd do well in West Germany; they're so anti-uniform these days, you can't believe it. All the traffic policemen have a whistle and a bouncer's jacket—no badge or gun—though I feel there's a thing with gold buttons and epaulettes hanging in the closet at home, ready for use."

Everywhere he went in Europe, however, "Ernie Borgnine was terribly well-known—through 'Marty' of course. That picture had great appeal everywhere and it still holds up."

AS "McHALE" HEADS INTO its third season, Joe Flynn insists the company is a close group. "It's like being brother in a 30-member college fraternity. You've got to hate someone, somewhere along the way. But then you're singing songs and lighting candles and realizing you're all brothers again."

The absence of women has helped the cause of amity, he feels. "A woman is like the grain of sand in the oyster, but you don't get a pearl every time. Women in the troupe would require more care and attention. They'd be at the studio two hours early for all the hair business. Since I get up at 5:30, I suppose they'd have to get up at 3:30. And by noon what would they be like?"

Medical Research Goes On

New knowledge is the key-stone of progress. The National Institutes of Health not only carries out important research projects but also helps to co-ordinate medical research in the United States by preventing needless overlapping and awarding research grants to promising investigators.

In its annual report to Congress it has listed encouraging steps in many fields. For example, clinical trials with new vaccine against German measles have not only protected non-immune volunteers from getting the disease but also kept the blood stream free of the virus.

It is this German measles virus in the blood of a pregnant woman that so often causes gross deformity in the baby. This vaccine must undergo further testing before it becomes commercially available.

OTHER PRODUCTS that may become available soon include a purified Colorado tick fever vaccine, cholera vaccine, and a vaccine against virus pneumonia.

It does not seem likely that science will ever solve all the problems of this world but, at present, the chief limiting factor is a shortage of trained scientists of vision and ability rather than a shortage of available funds.

The National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness reports the successful transplants of nerve segments taken from a donor who had just died. Nerve transplants of up to five inches in length have helped form new nerves in persons whose nerve injury occurred as much as three years earlier.

THE TRANSPLANT itself does not live but acts as a guiding track along which the patient's own fibers are led back to their endings to re-establish lost movement or sensory function. This type of transplant was not considered possible a few years ago.

Salem All-Stars Lose Games; Akron Girls Triumph

Lema's 141 Leads By Two In British Open Classic

Strain's Wins 5-4; Chuck's Rolls 4-2

Both Salem All-Star (softball) teams were beaten by Alliance aggregations, and Akron CIO-AFL girls rallied in the sixth for all its runs to edge Warren Laurel Lanes 4-3 at Kelley Field Thursday night.

Alliance W. L. Strain edged the first of the Salem star units 5-4, then Alliance Chuck's Inn knocked off the other group 4-2.

In an extra-inning contest, Strain's picked up its winning run with two away. Eldon Linder led off the eighth with a double. The next two batters were easy outs. An error then sent Linder racing home with the deciding run.

Salem, down 4-2, rallied to tie the score in the bottom of the seventh as Larry Moulin, Rick Morrison and losing hurler Don Fife hit singles.

Alliance's Bob Wallace hit a home run to break up a pitcher's duel in the top of the fifth. "Red" Stanley led the winners with a double and single. Jim Weizenacker and Moulin paced the losers with two hits apiece.

After grabbing a 1-0 lead on Jim Barnes' home run in the third inning, Salem's No. 2 unit gave up three runs to Chuck's Inn in the fourth frame.

An error, wild pitch and passed ball got the winners rolling as George Lingo scored the first run. Two walks, and singles by Bob Ferguson and winning pitcher Bill Panzott brought in two more runs.

Alliance collected its other marker in the fifth as Jim Ramser hit a single, and Lingo socked a triple.

Ed Stefane led off the sixth inning for Salem with a single, and scored on a single by pinch-hitter Paul Headland.

Ferguson led Chuck's Inn with a double and single. "Lefty" Schmid had a double and single for Salem.

Down 3-0, Akron capped its rally by scoring the winning run with two out.

Jerry Parker, who had tripped and Barb Klicka, who had singled, both scored on a triple by Brenda Trent. Lou Anusic then walked and stole second base.

With runners on second and third, Pat Kerschner came through with a single to score both girls for the tying and deciding runs.

Laurel Lanes took a 2-0 lead in the fourth on a hit batter, an error, single by Sally Phillips and a double by Helen Calvin.

The losers got their other run in the sixth on a walk, sacrifice and a pair of errors.

Brenda Trent led Akron with two hits. Louis Thorpe was the only other batter to get a hit for Laurel Lanes.

Yankees Edge Washington 6-5

Belinsky Pitches 2-Hitter

To Shut Out White Sox 3-0

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bo Belinsky won't get to Hawaii, but he's returned to paradise.

The Los Angeles Angels' controversial left-hander sailed home Thursday night with a two-hit, 3-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox for his first shutout since Aug. 11, 1962.

Less than a month ago, Belinsky was asking Angels' General Manager Fred Haney for a ticket to the beach at Waikiki, where he was stationed last season after a demotion to the minors. Belinsky said the pressure in the majors was too great.

Haney, however, ruled thumbs down on a trip to the land of the hula and suggested Belinsky would do well to let his pitches do the dancing.

Fine, said Belinsky, "but if I'm seen in a night spot, that's my business. No one else's. It's not that I'm not going to take the game seriously. I'm simply going to be loose and relaxed about it."

Since then the 27-year-old southpaw has won three of four starts and compiled an average opening 0.96 earned run average. Over-all, he's 7-4 with a 2.68 ERA and headed for his best season since he broke into the majors in 1962 with a 10-11 record, including a no-hitter.

Meanwhile, the Baltimore Orioles boosted their American League lead to 3½ games and added to their amazing record in one-run games by sweeping a two-night doubleheader from Cleveland 4-3 and 2-1. The Orioles are playing .913 ball in one-run games with a 21-2 record in the squeakers.

The other AL games all were decided by one run with the New York Yankees regaining second place by defeating Washington 6-5, Minnesota nipping Kansas City 2-1 and Detroit edging Boston 4-3.

Belinsky was touched only for singles, by Rod Hansen in the fifth and Jerry McNertney in the sixth, and did not allow a runner to reach second base. He got the only run he needed in the fourth inning when Lou Clinton homered off Gary Peters for the first earned run allowed by White Sox pitchers in 31 innings.

Boog Powell provided all the Orioles' runs in the opener with a pair of two-run homers. Rookie Wally Bunker allowed the Indians only three hits, but two were homers by Leon Wagner and Bob Chance and the 19-year-old right-hander needed Stu Miller's relief help to bring his record to 9-2.

In the nightcap, Bob Johnson's double in the eighth drove in the tying run for the Orioles before rookie Sam Bowens, won it in the ninth with a two-out homer off Sam McDowell.

Don Lock's three-run homer shoved the Senators into an early lead but the Yankees tied the score in the fifth and put it out of reach with a three-run eighth. Joe Pepitone's bad-hop single with the bases loaded drove in two runs in the rally before Cleve Boyer brought home the clincher with another single.

The Twins won when Bob Allison and Don Mincher hit consecutive sixth inning homers off the A's Jose Santiago, making his first major league start. Allison's 22nd homer and Mincher's 12th gave Jim Katt, 10-3, just enough support. Kaat allowed eight hits, including a homer by Ken Harrelson.

Dave Wickersham, tagged for two homers by Lee Thomas, needed Larry Sherry's relief help in Detroit's victory but became the AL's first 12-game winner. Gates Brown hit a homer for the Tigers, who scored the decisive run in the sixth against the Red Sox on singles by Norm Cash, Dick McAuliffe and George Thomas.

Terrell Eyes Clay; Faces Bob Foster

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Terrell, like every other heavyweight contender, would like to get the next shot at heavyweight champion Cassius Clay. But the gangling Chicago boxer said today he'd settle happily right now for a crack at ex-champion Floyd Patterson.

The No. 3 contender, meanwhile, will risk his chances for advancement tonight when he faces light heavyweight contender Bob Foster of Washington, D.C., in the 10-round television fight at Madison Square Garden.

The bout will be telecast nationally starting at 9 p.m., EST. Scoring will be by the rounds system.

CIO 3372 Hands Leetonia 4022 8-5 Setback; Sekely Triumphs

CIO 3372 took advantage of walks and errors to pull a mild upset as it knocked off Leetonia 8-5 in junior baseball Class E action at Centennial Park Thursday.

The Bliss - Famous Market contest scheduled for 2 p. m.

Saturday has been moved up to 5 p. m. at Centennial.

In Class F competition yesterday, Sekely chalked up eight runs in the sixth inning on its way to a 15-9 victory over Eljer, and Electric Furnace clipped Farmer's Bank 8-4 at Memorial Park.

Knight's of Columbus handed UCT a 10-1 setback, and National Dry Cleaners beat Italian Club 12-7 in Class G.

In the only Class H game on tap, Jaycees rolled to a 19-3 victory over Quaker Manufacturing at Buckeye Field.

For CIO 3372, it was only its second win in 10 starts, while Leetonia suffered its sixth loss in 10 tries.

The winners picked up five runs in the first inning without even getting a hit. Walks to Rod Chamberlain, Bob Wagner, Tom Vacar, Jim Anglin, Rod Bentley and Jac Bloomberg, plus an error, brought in the runs.

Vacar socked a double, and Dave Santucci and Bentley singled for CIO 3372's only hits.

Tim Harrold collected two singles to pace Leetonia. George Bell clouted a triple in the seventh.

In the eight-run sixth for Sekely's (9-2) key hits were singled by Bob Mackey, John Minarcik, Mike Palmer and Don McKinney, and a grand slam home run by Minarcik battering for the second time.

MORE

Farb Tinsley homered and singled for two of Eljer's (5-5) three hits. Bob Beeson singled in the sixth for the other.

Bob Santucci belted a triple and double, and Ken Kenst socked a home run to spark Electric Furnace (3-8).

Scott Cranmer had a pair of singles to lead Farmer's Bank (2-9).

A two-run home run by Dan Russell was more than enough for the Knights as they chalked up their eighth win in 13 starts. Rick Alexander led the winners with two singles.

Randy Handlick, Floyd Crawford, Warren Washington and Jim Mercier were the only UCT (6-7) batters to get hits off winning pitcher John Lantz, who struck out 11 and walked none.

National Dry Cleaners (5-8) broke open its game with Italian Club (6-7) with a big eighth-run fourth frame. Key hits in the big rally were singles by Gary Jackson and Dale Cody, and doubles by Frank Forkel and Gary Cook.

Glenn Whitacre and Dan Merrill paced the losers with a triple apiece.

The Jaycees (8-5) scored in every inning by the second. Featuring the winners' 14-hit attack were triples by Dennis Sell, Louis Quinn and Wayne Poff and a home run by Mike Cosgrove.

Terry Mounts and Randy Montgomery were the only batters for Quaker Manufacturing (5-9) to get hits.

Bucs Lose 11-6; Mets Nip Cardinals

Johnny Callison has an arm, too.

The All-Star hero showed it Thursday night, saving Philadelphia's 4-3 victory over Cincinnati by throwing out the potential tying run at the plate in the seventh inning.

The triumph kept the National AL League leading Phillies 1½ games in front of second-place San Francisco.

Callison, whose three-run homer in the ninth inning beat the American League All-Stars 7-4 Tuesday, pulled the key defensive play after the Phillies grabbed a 4-2 lead with three runs in the sixth.

Ray Culp should have been out of the seventh unharmed, but Richie Allen's two - base throwing error put Pete Rose at third and Frank Robinson at second with two out. Deron Johnson then laced a single to right field.

Rose scored, and Robinson tried to do the same. Callison, however, fired the ball to catcher Clay Dalrymple, nailing Robinson for the third out.

Callison didn't get a hit as the Phillies resumed their pennant drive following the All-Star break, but he did score the go-ahead run in the sixth. He walked, went to second on Allen's single and came home on Covington's single.

In other National League games, the Giants thumped Chicago 9-4, Milwaukee whipped Pittsburgh 11-6, and New York nipped St. Louis 4-3 and Houston edged Los Angeles 6-5.

After Callison scored in the decisive run, the catcher earlier hit a home run. John Tstouris was the victim of the Phillies' rally, allowing the three-run-scoring singles on first pitches.

John Edwards homered in the fourth off Culp, who evened his record at 6-6 with relief help from Jack Baldschun in the eighth.

The Giants rapped 16 hits, including a solo homer by Willie Mays in the first inning, his 25th, and Willie McCovey's two-run homer in the sixth. Jim Hart had four hits for the Giants.

San Francisco starter Jack Sanford was forced out in the second inning after Chicago batters drove two balls off his right arm.

The Braves gave Warren Spahn nine runs in the first three innings, but the 43-year-old southpaw failed for the 11th time to pitch his first complete game since May 19. Spahn now 6-8, was lifted in the sixth after walking the first two Pirates.

Ed Mathews triggered a five-run first inning and a three-run second with singles and homered in the third. The Braves belted six straight hits before making an out in the first. Bill Mazeroski and Gene Alley homered off Spahn in the fourth.

Callison's Key Out At Plate Gives Phillies 4-3 Triumph

Frank Thomas hadn't played since May 31 when he came to bat as a pinch hitter with one on and two out in the Mets' ninth. He celebrated his return by hitting a home run off Curt Simmons that wiped out a 3-2 deficit.

The Cardinals had taken the lead in the seventh on Curt Flood's run-scoring single.

Houston also came from behind against the Dodgers, scoring four runs in the ninth. Nellie Fox' two-run single climaxed the rally and deprived Don Drysdale of his 12th victory. Drysdale left in the seventh with a 4-2 lead. However, Bob Miller and Ron Perranoski could not hold it.

Ron Fairly drove in three runs for the Dodgers while Jerry Grote hit a two-run homer for the Colts.

Weetman Cards 143; Nicklaus Fires 150

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—How is it, said the man in the Royal and Ancient Club, that you Americans always come up with the winner?

He was talking about Tony Lema, 30-year-old Oakland, Calif., professional who shot into the 36-hole lead of the British Open Thursday with a brilliant 68 to go with his 73 for 141.

Behind him were Harry Weetman of England at 143, Christy O'Connor of Ireland and Bruce Devlin of Australia at 144, and Jean Garaialde of France at 145. Others stretched behind included Jack Nicklaus at 150 along with Bob Charles, New Zealand, the defending champion.

Well, how is it?

Said Lema: "I ditched my wedge and ran my seven iron."

That was the lesson it took Bobby Jones some five years to learn about the 6,926-yard Old Course where golf was born.

Once at astronomical odds, Lema now was 3-1 to capture a title worth $4,200 but worth thousands more in prestige and fringe benefits.

Lema's mastery of the blustering gales at the old course fascinated the Scots Thursday. He had played it only once, actually, with an 18 hole round plus seven holes of practice fresh from a flight from the Whitmarsh, Pa. tournament.

"The first 18 holes are the hardest," Champagne Tony said.

He said it in jest but in fact he proved something about it. His eagle two on the 312 yard 12th hole with a drive and a 25-foot putt is still being talked about.

The North Sea winds of the past two days destroyed a lot of good players. The final 45 survivors for the 36-hole windup had 13 or better for the first two rounds.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—The top finishers after two rounds of the British Open Golf Championship:

Tony Lema, San Leandro, Calif. 73-68—141

CYCLIST'S SIGHTINGS — Jacques Anquetil, top, is planning a trip. The French athlete is looking over some of the terrain he plans to cover in the 1,500-mile-long Tour de France bicycle race. Outstanding Stars Fall In Ohio Amateur Tourney cast of 16, swung into the third round of matches today at Maketewah Country Club. Today's play will cut the field to four.

CINCINNATI (AP)—The 58th Ohio Amateur Golf Championship, with an oddly assorted

Survivors of Thursday's pair of 18-hole contests include the defending champion, 20-year-old Bob Bourne of Oberlin; a 17-year-old high schooler, several collegians, two reformed professionals, a public links representative, an attorney, a glove salesman, a newspaper publisher, etc.

Some highly touted talent was on the sidelines. Knocked out in the opening series of set-ups and upsets were such luminaries as ex-champions Walter Stahl of Cleveland and Dan Carmichael of Columbus; two-time state public links king Len Pietras of Toledo, 19-year-old Alex Antonio Jr. of Hubbard, twice winner of the state high school and junior titles, 20-year-old Bobby Little of Athens, former junior champion and runner-up for the amateur laurels in 1962; medalist Harry Lockwood of Cincinnati and Dr. Harry Duccilli, current Cincinnati champion and 1959 state amateur runner-up.

Bourne, sophomore at the University of Houston, was two under par in his 3 and 2 victory over Dr. Howard Peterson Jr. of Columbus and young Little.

Rick Jones of Columbus, 1956 NCAA champion, and a pro until last March, shot the best golf of the first two rounds as he wound up six under par for 30 holes.

Victim of the biggest heart-break was youthful Antonio. He was two up with two holes to play, but lost to an extra-hole birdie by Richard Peterson of Cincinnati. Three putts on the 17th hole and a trapped tee shot on the 18th cost Antonio his edge.

Stahl was beaten 2-up in the opening round by John Verity of Middletown, captain of the University of Virginia golf team, but Verity was ousted in the second session by Pandel Savic of Columbus. Carmichael, after beating Pietras 3 and 2 in the opener, was a 1-up victim of James Brown of St. Clairsville, 1963 medalist who plays basketball and golf for Ohio State.

Survivors of today's matches meet in the 36-hole semifinals Saturday with the two winners battling Sunday for the championship.

Orioles Beat Tribe 4-3, 2-1

Indians Drop Pair, Have Lost 10 of 11

CLEVELAND (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts' return as manager of the Cleveland Indians doesn't seem to have inspired them.

The Tribe lost its fifth straight game by dropping a double-header to the Baltimore Orioles Thursday night, 4-3 and 2-1. The Indians collected only three hits in the first game and but four in the nightcap.

Rookie Sam Bowens tagged Sam McDowell (3-3) for a homer in the ninth inning to decide the second game.

In the first game, Dick Donovan was the victim of a pair of two-run homers by Boog Powell. Oriole rookie pitcher Wally Bunker (9-2) had the Indians eating out of his hand until the ninth inning, when a two-run homer by Bob Chance sent him to the showers.

Cleveland now has lost 10 of its last 11 games and dropped 16 games behind the league-leading Orioles.

McDowell pitched well but his teammates couldn't do anything with starter Milt Pappas and winning reliever Harvey Haddix in the nightcap.

The Indians broke a scoreless deadlock in the seventh inning when Chico Salmon singled in a run after Fred Whitfield blooped a double. Baltimore tied it in the eighth on singles by Norm Siebern and John Orsino and Bob Johnson's double.

Bunker, after giving up a solo homer to Leon Wagner in the first inning of the opener, Daddy Wags' 18th, pitched hitless ball until the ninth. The other hit in the first inning was a double by Vic Davalillo, who was thrown out trying to stretch it into a triple.

Powell slammed his homers in the first and fifth.

Tebbetts was honored at a American League President Joe Cronin was on hand for Birdie's first appearance in uniform here since suffering a heart attack in spring training.

Tebbetts received telegrams from Gov. James A. Rhodes, President Johnson and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Wright Sinks Ace At Valley Course

Gary Wright, 20, of 29 E. Woodland St., Columbiana, scored a hole-in-one at Valley Golf Course Thursday.

He made his ace on the 150-yard No. 4 hole, using a six iron. It was the second hole-in-one made at the nine-hole course this season.

Wright, who finished with a 40 on the par 35 layout, was playing with Dale, Jim and Paul Murphy all of Columbiana.

A word from THERON at the Country Store

This coming Sunday afternoon we are supposed to have sky divers putting on a show out here behind the Country Store.

One of my good customers was going to be one of the jumpers but last week he broke his ankle in a jump. His wife who also does some jumping tells me the show will go on.

If you come out here this Sunday afternoon to see the sky divers please park in back. We have lots of parking room out back now.

Mississippi Rights Work
To Continue Year Around

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., whose son is a civil rights worker in Mississippi this summer, says the student effort to help Negroes there is sure to continue year around—"It's working too well to let it stop."

LBJ Frets Over
Floodlights and Loses Spotlight

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, like most politicians, enjoys being in the spotlight. But he sometimes frets about floodlights.

Of course, spotlights and floodlights often go together and you can't have one without the other. Johnson discovered this Thursday.

Because the President dislikes the big, hot flood lamps used by television cameramen, he lost some of the spotlight when he signed the $375 million mass transit law.

The signing ceremony was the sort Presidents like to publicize—especially with four governors, three big city mayors and 24 congressional leaders on hand.

But when Johnson signed the transit act not a single news photographer was present. And there was no television or news coverage when he said the new law is "one of the most profoundly significant domestic measures" of the decade.

Here is how the much publicized chief executive missed some sure-fire publicity:

On Wednesday, Johnson was discomfited, and made no bones about it, by photo floodlights set up in the East Room when he and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy greeted federal prosecutors from all parts of the country. Aides vowed they would try to avoid recurrences.

This was no sudden presidential quirk, either. On other occasions he displayed similar aversions—which many others share—to long exposure under hot, bright lights.

Mindful of this, Johnson aides decided to keep photographers out of the bill-signing ceremony except for the opening minutes when he made his entrance.

Edwards, who just returned from a tour of southwestern Mississippi, said there is great concern among students there about what will happen to local Negroes when summer is over and the students leave the state.

He said "It will have to be planned for. We must let it be established that the program is not going to end, that the eyes of the world and of the federal government are on the white people of Mississippi."

Edwards said in an interview Thursday he was "immensely proud" of his son, Leonard, 23, a law student, for going to Mississippi to try to get Negroes registered to vote, but was "terribly concerned" for his safety.

The house at McComb, Miss., in a Negro district in which Edwards and his son slept last Monday night was ripped the following night by three bombs thrown from the street.

"There is a very deep distrust of the FBI among students in the Mississippi project," said Edwards, who was an FBI agent before he joined the Navy in World War II.

"They cannot understand why in the case of the three missing students (at Philadelphia, Miss.) so many hours went by with the FBI refusing to become involved in a rather obvious kidnapping case."

It was learned Thursday night that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover is considering a trip to Mississippi, where more than 100 agents are searching for the three rights workers missing since June 21.

The FBI refused to comment on Hoover's reported tentative plan.

RULES ACCIDENTAL DEATH

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coroner Samuel R. Gerber has ruled that Theodore Lachovic, 54, whose burned body was found in the wreckage of a station wagon Sunday morning, died accidentally. Authorities believe, Lachovic of Cleveland fell asleep while smoking and set the interior of the car ablaze. The car was in a vacant lot.

GETS LORDSTOWN CONTROL

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The U. S. Army Armored Center at Ft. Knox, Ky., has been given administrative control of the huge Lordstown Military Reservation south of here. Ft. Knox officials say the post, which employs 41 civilians and has one officer, will remain on inactive status.

Youngstown
U. Expansion
Plan Unveiled

YOUNGSTOWN — A preliminary long-range Campus Master Plan for Youngstown University calls for 14 new building units.

Prepared for Dr. Howard W. Jones, president of the university; Charles G. Watson, chairman of the university's board of trustees; and William B. Pollock and Raymond J. Wean, co-chairmen of the building committee of the board, the joint report and plan was submitted by the architectural firms after a careful and comprehensive study of the long-range needs of the university. The plan will be submitted to the university board at a special meeting later.

Dr. Jones said that university officials are hoping to break ground for the Student Center Building in the fall.

The new proposed units included in the preliminary plan are: an Art and Music Unit with faculty areas; Arts and Sciences Classroom Tower; Science Building addition; School of Business Administration Classroom Building; Technical Institute Classroom Building; School of Engineering Tower and Building; School of Education Classroom Building for education and military science; Dining Unit; Student Union Tower; Gymnasium; Receiving and Maintenance Building; a symbolic structure; and dormitory units.

Rainbow Girls Set Columbiana Picnic

COLUMBIANA — Order of the Rainbow for Girls will hold a picnic at 6 p.m. Wednesday at the east side of No. 1 pavilion, Firestone Park. Coffee, cold drinks, rolls and butter will be provided.

Final plans for the Columbiana Junior Chamber of Commerce installation banquet were made at the regular meeting Wednesday at Heck's Restaurant. The banquet has been scheduled for 7 p.m. July 18 at Valley Golf Club with the members' wives as guests.
